

D&D ARENA

3v3 PvP D&D 5e — drop in and play

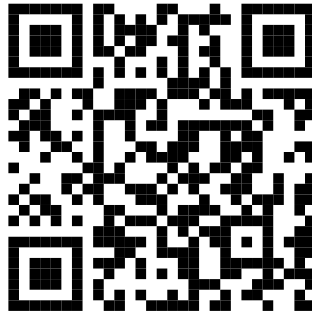

D&D Arena is a 3v3 PvP take on D&D 5e — pre-built characters, short tactical rounds, locked Level-3 rules, whole match wraps in 2–3 hours. It's built for drop-in play, so someone who's never rolled a d20 can sit at a table with lifers and actually have fun. The Arena format strips out everything that slows a normal D&D session — no character creation, no campaign continuity, no “wait, what does my spell do” — and leaves the part that's fun: choose your team, pick your map, fight, see who's still standing.

How to play, in three lines:

1. Pick a team of three from the 12 pre-built characters on the table — mirrors allowed.
2. Pick a map together. Each one plays differently.
3. Fight. 90-second turns, 10-round cap. Last team standing wins.
